

Community Action and Problem Solving Process

The Community Action and Problem Solving Process is a six-step model that combines the best of civic engagement, environmental education, and STEM. The following graphic represents the components of each step and their relationship to one another as a quick reference guide as you work through the Process with your students.

